

Art as a Pedagogical Tool Workshop by Dr. Asha Singh

This year's theatre and craft practicums began with an innovative, interactive and highly informative workshop. Dr. Singh, with over a decade of experience in Art in Education, engaged students on various aspects of theatre and other performing arts, particularly dance. With the help of interesting activities like hand and face' movements in rhythm, couplet signings and writing she explained how critical is use of art is in teaching-learning process. At the end of a significant section she gave tasks which helped students understand the nuances of progressing towards pedagogical robust classroom processes.
