Report

"Tales that Transform" was a storytelling competition organised by Arthavrishti: The Economics Society, Department of Economics, held in Room 425, inviting students from all years and courses to participate. The event aimed to celebrate the theme "Viksit Bharat 2047" through engaging narratives and imaginative storytelling.

The event commenced promptly at 10:30 AM and continued until 12 PM. Participants were selected through an initial screening process via Google Form, ensuring a diverse range of storytellers from various backgrounds.

The theme "Viksit Bharat 2047" provided a futuristic lens through which participants could craft their stories. It encouraged them to envision an evolved India in the year 2047, highlighting the topic "Empowering Indians", innovation, and societal development.

Participants took turns to narrate their stories, captivating the audience with their imaginative plots and compelling characters. Each storyteller brought their unique perspective to the theme, showcasing creativity and storytelling prowess.

The event was judged by the co-convenors Mr. Harjeet Singh and Ms. Sukhvinder Kaur, who brought their expertise and discerning eye to evaluate the participants' performances. Their feedback and insights added depth to the event, ensuring a fair and transparent judging process. Our convenor, Ms. Shivani Verma, felicitated the winner and the first runner up with certificates. The audience played a crucial role in the event, providing encouragement and applause to the storytellers. Their enthusiasm and support created a vibrant atmosphere, enhancing the overall experience for both participants and spectators.

"Tales that Transform" was a resounding success, showcasing the power of storytelling to inspire, educate, and entertain. Through their narratives, participants offered glimpses into the future of India, sparking imagination and dialogue. The event served as a platform for creative expression and community engagement, leaving a lasting impression on all who attended.
