Teachers Day

On September 5, 2022, the entire Department of Statistics celebrated Teacher's Day in offline mode after two whole years. It was a joyous occasion to see the entire department come out to celebrate their beloved teachers.

The event took place at 12:15 pm on the third floor. Formal invitations were sent to professors an hour in advance and to students a day in advance, maintaining the element of surprise. As soon as every child entered the classroom, they wished the teachers a happy teacher's day. The students organized a cake ceremony for the teachers and the professors appeared to be absolutely delighted with their pupils' efforts.

A third-year student, Anshul Sharma, gave handmade sketches to the teachers. The teachers seemed happy with their amazing sketches and praised Anshul. Then the cake-cutting took place. All the teachers cut the cake while the students congratulated them on Teachers' Day. Then the professors received a box of delicious chocolates. The teachers commended everyone for their efforts and blessed all of the pupils. Students were thrilled after not celebrating Teachers' Day for over a year. Nobody could but smile.

Dear teachers, we congratulate you all on Teachers' Day. Thank you for being our guide and inspiring us to do well in our studies. We are all lucky to have you as our teachers.
