

Educational Visit to National Museum, New Delhi

Subject: Pedagogy of Social Science

Time: 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM

Course: B.El.Ed. 4th Year

College: Mata Sundri College for Women, University of Delhi

Date of Visit: 8th April, 2026

On 8 April 2026 (Wednesday), an educational visit to the National Museum, New Delhi was organized for B.El.Ed 4th year students under the Pedagogy of Social Science paper by Dr. Meenal Arora. The visit aimed to make the teaching of Social Science more connected with real-life experiences.

During the visit, various galleries were explored displaying artefacts from the Indus Valley Civilization, ancient sculptures, coins, manuscripts, and traditional objects from early periods such as the 7th–8th century. Interactive sections and games were also observed, demonstrating how Social Science concepts can be taught in an engaging and participatory manner.

The visit highlighted the importance of experiential learning and the use of museums as effective educational spaces. It also provided insights into how future teachers can help students connect with Social Science beyond textbooks. Overall, the visit was informative and contributed to a better understanding of meaningful and effective teaching practices in Social Science.
