

SWACHHTA PAKHWADA:

BEST OUT OF WASTE

With the motto 'recycle it all, no matter how small', Parivartan, the NSS unit of Mata Sundri College for Women organized a 'Best out of waste' event on the 11th of September, 2021. It was celebrated under Swachhta Pakhwada.

Volunteers participated in this event by creating very interesting things from the waste materials (recyclable and non-recyclable things). Volunteers made creative items such as pen holders, bookmarks, showpieces, pots for plants out of plastic bottles, artificial fish tank etc. The most used item was cardboard and paper with other stationery waste. This event helped the volunteers showcase their creative skills and everyone enjoyed it. Volunteers felt really refreshed and happy as firstly, they felt that they did something for the environment and secondly, it gave them a break from their busy schedules.

The volunteers were instructed to shoot videos of themselves while making their own creations and also click the pictures of the final product. Some volunteers even opted to explain what they had made by using the reusable waste lying around in their house and encouraged other to do so as well. A google drive link was provided to the volunteer to upload their respective entries. We received a total of 38 incredible entries for this event and with that, everyone promised themselves that they will follow the rule of three R's which is Reuse, Reduce and Recycle.
