

HENNA COMPETITION

VOTER UTSAV

Parivartan, the NSS unit of Mata Sundri College for Women organized the "HENNA COMPETITION" under VOTER UTSAV. Around 25 volunteers participated in the competition successfully. Volunteers were asked to submit their entries in where they have to put up henna on their hands showcasing the quotes, images, slogans etc for generating awareness towards voting. This event took place on 16th November 2021 at 5 pm.

The best entries are forwarded for representing our competition that is held on Instagram. It was a very creative yet fun event for all. 29 Volunteers took part in it and created awareness among the people about why voting is very important for democracy and why every youngster should register himself/herself as a voter. Volunteers have put up their efforts in delivering their thoughts for Creating awareness and have made the competition more attractive and interesting. "Democracy is not freedom. Democracy is two wolves and a lamb voting on what to eat for lunch. Freedom comes from the recognition of certain rights which may not be taken, not even by a 99% vote." by Marvin Simkin.

Volunteers presented their messages through henna drawings on their hands. The volunteers sent us pictures of their designs through the google drive link provided to them. Some volunteers send the pictures of their design when the henna was still not dry while some waited for it to dry and sent the picture of the henna impression. Volunteers wrote slogans in Hindi and English, some drew common voting symbols such as a ballot box, the voting mark on the index finger and people in a voting booth. Volunteers put a lot of effort in the hopes of generating awareness for voting. So, who can vote should definitely choose their government by giving one vote. So, our Volunteers encouraged people with unique idea of applying henna to their hands
