

WORLD POPULATION DAY

Article Writing

Parivartan, the NSS unit of Mata Sundri College for Women organised an Article Writing event – Effects of COVID-19 On the Population on 11th July, 2021 to have a deeper insight of the devastating effects of the pandemic on people. 13 volunteers participated in the event with great zeal and enthusiasm.

The pandemic has affected billions of people worldwide and put people into a mental turmoil along with economic instability. The virus has become a living reality and has forced people to quarantine, shut schools and implemented work from home culture for offices. Not only it has reinforced poverty, snatching the livelihood of millions of people at once but it comes with the price of death. Streets which were extremely crowded now lie deserted as the fear of contracting and spread of virus lurks over the minds of population. Many colonies have been sealed with a series of lockdown impositions. The pandemic has left no stone untouched and has managed to penetrate deep into the country, affecting many people at once who stand firm united in solidarity against this new kind of evil. NSS volunteers dug deep into the psyche of the population along with jotting their own experience in the pandemic. It was a highly enriching event which further strengthened the bond between the volunteers and the society at large.
