The Intra-College Debate Competition was organised on 16 September 2026 at Mata Sundri College for Women, University of Delhi, on the occasion of World Ozone Day. The event was jointly organised by Earthcon – The Eco Club, Department of Environmental Studies, Viksit Bharat Ambassador Club and Debattle – The Debating Society. The theme, “Development at what cost? Rethinking environmental priorities with special emphasis on ozone layer depletion,” encouraged students to critically examine the relationship between development, environmental sustainability and the protection of the ozone layer. The competition provided a platform for students to express diverse perspectives while developing their research, analytical and public-speaking skills.

The competition witnessed enthusiastic participation and lively exchange of arguments on the given theme. The event concluded with the announcement of the winners and distribution of prizes and certificates. Suhani secured 1st position, while Tejas secured 2nd position. Atithi, Deepanshi and Tanya received the Consolation Prize for their noteworthy performances. Trophies were awarded to the top positions, while e-certificates were provided to the participants, marking the successful culmination of the competition.
